This research aims at identifying how the implementation model of Community Based Tourism has been conducted to the development of Dieng Kulon rural tourism. This research is a qualitative one, which uses the primary data taken from Observation Technique and Focus Group Discussion. The analysis used in this research is descriptive qualitative and Participatory Rural Appraisal (PRA). The study departed from an assumption that the development success in any forms including tourism should involve the community as the subject. Besides, this

It is of practical significance to the research on the hot issues of countryside tourism, which helps to solve the problem of reuse of Rural tourism and sustainable development of rural economy. However, there are still many problems with this article.

- In the introduction part, the author described a lot about rural tourism and the sustainable development of rural economy, but it is not very closely related to the research purpose in this article. It is recommended that the author add this content.
- The introduction part also does not describe the source of the experimental data and data preprocessing, and the author is recommended to add content.
- At the end of the introduction, the author did not summarize the full text in chapters. I recommend that the author can modify it so that readers can have an overall grasp of the full text.

Method:

- The author is suggested to add the reasons for choosing descriptive qualitative analysis and participatory rural assessment (PRA), as well as their advantages, disadvantages and applicability.
- The method does not mention the selection principle of selecting the core personnel of the research. It is recommended that the author add this part of the content.

Result and discussion:

- It is suggested that the author add the process and details of how to formulate rural tourism model planning and matters needing attention based on regional principles.

Conclusions :

- The conclusion part did not describe the deficiencies and limitations of the article, and should respond to the future development of technology.
- In the conclusion part, the description of the conclusion of this study is too simple. It is recommended that the author enrich the content and analyze the conclusion from a deeper level.

Others:

The following minor issues should be looked into by the author:

- Part of the language of this article can be optimized to make the language more academic.
