Dear Dr Yudiono

Thank you for your message and the attached paper.

I have gone through it and must say that I am not impressed by this paper. Since you have already published with us I thought that, at least the paper will be structured and formatted correctly. But, this is not the case! The title is far too long, there are seven co-authors in a paper with 5 pages! Even their names are not presented in accordance with the WIETE style. The tables are negligent and are not formatted correctly, even the numbers are listed differently. In one place, the decimal mark is shown as a dot (full stop) in another place as a comma (obviously in English the decimal mark is a full stop). Zero is also a number, and in one place there is a zero in another there is not. The text in many places is in one big block, which is not our style. The references are not presented in accordance with the WIETE style. We do not permit this format; e.g. "Smith, H. et al". In addition, in some places the authors names are reversed, mixed family names with given names!

As far as the content is concerned, there is a lot of statistics in the paper, but not enough substance and nor interpretation. For example, the conclusion bit is too short, and is written in a peculiar way: The findings from this study suggest, among other things, ... what are the other things? Statements must be supported by facts. The fundamental question is what is the impact of this study on engineering and technology education – it is not shown at all.

I have supplied you with a text entitled Editorial Comments, with several check points, and those have been completely ignored.

So, in conclusion, we will not publish this paper in its present form in our journal.

Dear Dr Yudiono

We have received some important comments concerning your paper:

On first read through, this paper reads quite well. However, a more in-depth analysis indicates a number of items that need attention.

Introduction

The Introduction does a reasonable job of introducing the subject but would benefit from references to more highly-cited papers in the literature. I would suggest:

Habok, A. and Nagit, J., In-service teachers perceptions of project-based learning, SpringerPlus, 5:83, (2016) (165 citations).

Jalinus, Nabawi, R.A. and Mardin, A., The seven steps of project based learning model to enhance productive competences of vocational students, Advances in Social Science, Education and Humanities Research, 102, 251-256 (2017). (113 citations).

Indrawan, E., Jalinus, N. and Syahri, S., Project-based learning in vocational technology education: study of the literature, International Journal of Scientific & Technology Research, 9, 02, 2821--2825 (2020).

The following statement appears in the Introduction: "The capacity of instructors to sort, select, and apply relevant learning models will determine whether or not vocational education succeeds in preparing students for the workforce [2]". I would suggest this is not what is said in ref. [2].

Omit ref [3]. It is not easily accessible to readers.

Method/Results of Study

Nowhere in these two sections does it identify which, and how, the different communication/critical thinking/collaboration/creative skills were evaluated. I also question the number of significant figures used in the data in Tables 2-9. Is this justified?

Discussion

This section merely repeats other authors' (refs [8-15]) conclusions

Conclusions

Rewrite. Not sure what this section is saying. Using the normalized gain criteria, what is the effect of project-based learning on the different skill sets?

Would you please review, correct and amend the paper taking into account the provided comments?

Please note that I would not worry about the comment on the number of Tables. They are OK.

8/21/22, 11:19 AM

UNNES Mail - WTE&TE Journal Inquiry

Attached please find an MS Word file of your paper which was prepared by us before it was sent to the referees. In correcting and amending your paper, you should use this file and all changes and additions MUST be done using the red colour font, so that it is easy for us to check what has been done in this paper.

You have five (5) days for this work, and we expect that we will receive your corrected paper by Saturday, 13 August 2022. Any delay may cause that your paper will not go to Vol.20, No.3.

I look forward to hearing from you at your earliest convenience.

Dear Dr Yudiono

In preparing your article for publication, we have noticed that the text of the article is uneven in terms of the English language used. For example, the Abstract has several English language problems, but the Introduction seems to be error-free and very fluent.

Considering this observation, could you please confirm that the text of the article is fully original, i.e. written by the authors and/or translated by a professional translator, or written by a native English speaker, as well as all direct citations (text taken from other authors' publications) are italicised in the body of the article and properly acknowledged as references.

Your brisk and unambiguous answer is essential before the final decision concerning the acceptance of the article is made, and further editorial work undertaken?

Dear Dr Yudiono

I am delighted to inform you that your article, tentatively entitled (subject to editorial change): Improving the 21st Century learning skills of a vocational teacher candidate through an industrial project approach, co-authored by Heri Yudiono, Rusiyanto, Sarwi Asri, Sudiyono, Alverro P. Widodo, Fadila F. Firdus & Anisa N. Lailasari, has now been refereed positively and, as such, has been accepted for inclusion in the WTE&TE, Vol.20, No.3.

In order for us to commence the processing of your article, you should immediately pay the article publication fee as per the Submission Form & Payment Details ($A800). Please note that the payment of the publication fee is now due.

Also, please note that the Wiete does not issue invoices for institutions which are not our partners as we operate with individuals not institutions. The Submission Form & Payment Details is the pro forma invoice, and is issued with individual authors.

The solution to the matter of payment is simple: has your payment of the article fee been accepted by the university authority (and you have received the acceptance message), you can transfer the funds to our account from your private bank account. We will immediately issue a proper receipt on receipt of the funds, which you can lodge with your university for reimbursement. This has been done by many individual contributors over the last 12 or so years. It also speeds up the process of payment as university administrations worldwide are usually very slow.

Kindest regards

Zenon J. Pudlowski
