Comments to Author:

Reviewer 1:

Review of the manuscript “The Level of Threats And Community Capacity Concerning to Landslide Emergency in Banjarnegara Indonesia “ (International Journal of Environmental Science and Development)

Reviewer’s comments:

The theme of objective assessment of landslide hazards and community capacity is very interesting and relevant. Although it fits with the journal scope, its relevance and that the content has potential to give a real contribution, it must be resubmitted with major revisions. This first version seems to be a report and is lacking in scientific rigor.

I made some notes in pdf file (please find attached "Reviewer 1's Notes"), but I outline some general and important comments/recommendations below:

- 1- The manuscript has to include some parts about mainly the theory base of landslides, hazard and community capacity based on relevant and recent papers (this version is poor in references).
- 2- The terms of hazard, threat and capacity must be defined based on classical and recent papers.
- 3- The study area must be characterized before the results.
- 4- The choice of indicators (factors) of threats and capacity, the criteria for the score values and the definition of values of threats and capacity and their levels have to be deeply explained and justified.
- 5- The discussion of the results must be done comparing to other studies (other references).
- 6- There are some inconsistencies between findings written in the text and the results shown in Tables.
- 7- English grammar and spelling must be revised.

Reviewer 2:

The topic of your paper is important enough to be published because it provides information about landslide threats and community capacity in the study area in Indonesia. This will increase knowledge about the object of research and your findings can be used as a reference by stakeholders in planning mitigation or adaptation to the threat of landslide. However, to be published in this journal, your manuscript still needs to be improved to be suitable for publication in the International Journal of Environmental Science and Development. Some suggestions for improvement are outlined in the review comments. (Please find attached "Reviewer 2's Report") Thank you for attention.

Reviewer 3:

1. Literature review in the introduction is required to enrich your article. Author(s) only consider the law of disaster management in Indonesia but never consider a research article. I encourage the author(s) to make review literature to address gap literature and state of the art.
2. Proofreading to make sure there is no grammatical error is needed.

Comments to Authors

Thank you, the author has made an effort to improve the manuscript based on the comments of previous reviewers. The topic of this paper is quite important to be published because it provides information about landslide threats and community capacity in the study area in Indonesia. This will increase knowledge about research objects and findings as well as mitigation needed in reducing disaster risk. Some suggestions and improvements are still needed, especially in the introduction of the concept of mitigation for disaster risk reduction and in several paragraphs in the discussion. (Review Report is Attached)

Review Comments IJESD-583-Revised V1:

The Level of Threat and Community Capacity Concerning to Landslide
Emergency in Banjarnegara Indonesia

The manuscript improved by the author by adding some references which was originally only 15 to become 32 references. Thank you for this improvement.

The article on the titled &quot;The Level of Threat and Community Capacity Concerning of Landslide Emergency in Banjarnegara Indonesia&quot;, is important to publish because it involves the results of studies on landslides, the capacity of the community to threats that occur in the study area and mitigation efforts that need to be done in reducing landslide risk.

Improvements in the papers made by the author have been done well. But a few minor things still need development, so this manuscript is worth publishing immediately. These improvements include:

1) In the fifth paragraph of the third rows in the introduction, there is a sentence that is very disturbing to the concept of mitigation. The sentence ....., it will not be an integral element of threat, vulnerability, capacity, and risk.

Mitigation should be an integrated effort from risk reduction as formulated by the equation: . Therefore, it needs to be improved so that the concept of integral mitigation and linkages with risk, threat, vulnerability, and capacity are not mistaken.

2) Figure 1, should be placed under Table X before Table XI. Figure 1 and Table X, and also Table XI need to be referred to in the discussion because both tables and figures are the results of the study used to clarify the description in the discussion. For example in the discussion at 2. The level of community Capacity. It&#39;s good to start the sentence based on....&quot;Based on Table XI (not based on the research result), show that from 11 villages, there are 7 villages have low capacity levels, namely Paweden Village, Gumelar Village ..... Next example, on the discussion about the level of high landslide threat (c). Would you please check the end of the sentence second paragraph; it should be adding the Figure 1, so become &quot;The distribution of the level of landslide threat in Karangobar Sub-District can be seen in the following map (Figure 1)&quot;.

3) At the end of the 4 th paragraph (refer to 2. The level of community capacity). However, this value is still slightly above 70%, so it is still close to the criteria that are quite adequate. The sentence is confusing? And maybe not necessary, do considered for delete.

4) In the final discussion section of paragraph 5, this last sentence should be discarded because it has been accommodated in paragraph 6.

Conclusions and Recommendations

This paper can be immediately published by making small improvements in the introduction to the concept of mitigation about disaster risk reduction and some parts of the discussion according to reviewers's comments.
